NetManage Inc.
John Jackson, Customer Support Manager

"Snagit 9 is my secret weapon. When asked a question where I need to look up an answer in one of our systems, I capture the answer as an image, highlight what they need to look at with an arrow or a highlight, and off it goes in an email. I can do this in seconds, which catches others off guard since I can return professionally marked up images so quickly. I find it also speeds up their responses to me since they will take the embedded images as the proof they need, and do not go and look up the information again on their side."
